I. Description

Drawing on recent studies and debates within the study of Biblical and Old Testament Theology, this course provides an opportunity for deeper reflection on the hermeneutics of Scripture within theology. In this course students will locate their academic discipline(s) within the broader context of theological and cultural reflection. It also exposes students to the resources of the biblical tradition for their M.A./Ph.D. studies.

II. Purpose

A. Knowing (Cognitive): To know the breadth of disciplines within the theological academy and to locate one's own discipline within that context. To know the role that canonical resources play within the theological enterprise and the role that theological resources play within the exegetical enterprise. To know the development of the discipline of biblical theology and the impact of hermeneutical shifts on this discipline.

B. Being (Affective): To fully embrace the global agenda of the theological enterprise. To gain sensitivity and appreciation for theological disciplines outside one's own expertise. To reflect on and embrace a spiritual theology for the academic vocation.

C. Doing (Pragmatic): To articulate the mission of one's own particular discipline within the larger theological enterprise. To showcase the biblical resources available for carrying out one's particular academic theological pursuit. To learn the skills and contact points for dialogue with those within other theological disciplines and for facilitating such dialogue among colleagues.

III. Reading Resources

Other book services may also carry the texts.

IV. Schedule

A. Phase 1: Hermeneutics, Biblical Theology and the Theological Disciplines (Jan 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, Feb 7)

The first phase of this course is a combination of reading, lecture and discussion to lay the historical and hermeneutical foundations for understanding the discipline of Biblical Theology within the larger context of the Theological Disciplines. Outside of class seminar participants will be reading and working on their Position Papers (see Phase 2) as well as doing preparatory reading for class discussion.

B. Phase 2: Presentations of Theological Discipline Position Papers (Feb 14)

In this week the students will work within smaller groups, which will each have representatives from various disciplines of theological research, facilitated by faculty members.

C. Phase 3: Book Project Papers (Feb 28, Mar 7, 14, 21, 28, Apr 4)

In these weeks seminar participants will present major seminar papers. These papers will be reviewed by group members prior to class.

D. Phase 4: Wrap up (Apr 11)

V. Course Internet Resource Site

A course internet resource site has been developed for those in this seminar. Access is available through my personal faculty web page (see top of syllabus; password will be made available in class). This site will host some reading resources for this course, papers to be presented in class as well as any links to internet resources useful for this course. It is expected that each student will print out the papers to be discussed in class.

VI. Learning Experiences

A. Class Experiences

This is a graduate seminar style class of collaborative learning in which professor and students are engaged in active learning together. Learning to critically (in its positive sense) engage material is essential to functioning in a graduate program and is expected of all students in our MA/PhD. It is expected that all students will not only attend these sessions, but also that they will assume responsibility for contributing to and learning from the experience. This means that readings will be completed prior to arrival in class and that student and presenter alike will pursue the acquisition of knowledge in the learning environment. It is expected that ALL members of the class will ask questions and contribute insights whenever opportunity is given, during and following presentations by professor or student alike. Students are graded on their level of preparation and contribution.

Value: 20%

B. Theological Discipline Position Paper

Contribution: For this paper the student will write a 5,000 word research essay articulating the hermeneutical, historical and theological foundation for the particular discipline they are pursuing within theology and the ways in which that discipline relates to the larger theological agenda. Although this paper will have a personal dimension, it must not be journalistic autobiography, but rather must engage in deep hermeneutical, historical and theological reflection that engages key primary and secondary theological resources. Those resources will include (but not be limited to) the articles read in class, as well as those available in the textbooks and in the resource binder available in the advanced degree study rooms (it is not to leave that room, except to photocopy at the Mills Library), as well as any others the writer finds helpful. Papers are due in digital form by February 5 (11:59 p.m., send to professor by email) to be posted on the course web site.

Peer Review: Contributors will be put in groups of 3-4 led by a Divinity College professor and will be required to read their group members' position papers prior to the February 9 class and come prepared to reflectively interact. A 2 page written review (focus on the content of the paper, both areas for affirmation and improvement/clarification) is to be prepared for each other member of the group. This will form the foundation for the oral discussion in your groups (you will not read this formally, but use as a basis for conversation) and then a digital copy sent to the other members of the group after your session. A digital copy must be sent to the professor by 11:59 p.m. February 13. Each contributor should come prepared to articulate, defend and even revise their approach in light of the discussion.

Value: Contribution: 25%; Review: 10%

Due: Paper: February 5, 11:59 p.m.

Reviews: February 13, 11:59 p.m.

Submission: digital format to professor

C. Seminar Paper

For this learning experience the student will write a minimum 20 page research paper that has a direct relationship to one's theological concentration for the doctoral degree. There is some flexibility on the topic, but it must be related in some way to exegetical and biblical theology, that is, the study of the canonical resources for theological reflection. For those for whom exegetical/biblical theology is their core discipline, they should write a paper that includes reflection that interacts with at least one other non-biblical theological discipline. The precise topic will be chosen in consultation with the professor. In class the student will provide a precis of the paper and then class members are required to engage the paper in reflective and critical interaction.

Value: 45%

Due: 10 days prior to presentation in class at 11:59 p.m.

Submission: digital format to professor

Note on Timeliness of Submissions: Since this is a seminar style course all participants must be timely in their submission of material. People will need to read the various submissions and once the schedule is set there is no room to switch dates. For that reason there are considerable penalties for late materials in this course. Each DAY a paper is late will mean the loss of half a letter grade (5%). Take this into account when planning out your semester.

Rule of the Timbits (הלכה התמבטים): To ensure a timely start to class we will be observing the Timbit Redemption Rule for this course. Because “tardies” raise the ire of the covenant community (bound by this covenantal syllabus document delivered here at the foot of the “Mountain”), those who are late for class must have a means by which to atone for such “accidental sins” (בְּשִׁגָּגָה, if they are defiant sins, בְּיָד רָמָה, then the offender will be “cut off” from the community, see Num 15:27-31).¹ which means anyone late for class will need to bring Timbits for the entire class (מִנְחָה) no later than the next class meeting plus a Tim Hortons coffee (נֶסֶךְ) for the professor (cream, no sugar). This מִנְחָה and נֶסֶךְ will function simultaneously as both a sin offering (חֲטָאתָ, Leviticus 4) atoning for the accidental sin of the offender and a peace offering (שְׁלָמִים, Leviticus 3) enhancing the fellowship of the covenant community. See the high professor for further details and any torah-rulings (see Haggai 2:10-14) regarding specific situations.

¹ Of course, see the “definitive” work on this: Mark J. Boda, A Severe Mercy: Sin and Its Remedy in the Old Testament (Siphrut: Literature and Theology of the Hebrew Scriptures 1. Winona Lake: Eisenbrauns, 2009), 53-54.

VII. Format and Evaluation

So I can properly evaluate your work the following style guide is to be used for papers in this class.

- Medium for Submission: All material in this class is to be submitted in digital format to me via email. Please use .pdf format and ensure that what you send is what you want me to read. If you need a program for creating .pdfs go to <http://primopdf.com> for a free .pdf maker.
- Layout: All material which is submitted should be double spaced with 1" margins utilizing a readable font (10-12 pts). It must have a title page, footnoting where appropriate and bibliography, all of which are not included in the length required. It should be written in excellent modern literary English with proper grammar, spelling, punctuation and rhetoric (including an introduction, conclusion and logical flow of argument). If it helps an outline may accompany the "paper" but this is not included in the length of the "paper." Secondary and Primary sources should be used, cited and footnoted appropriately and the paper should follow the "McMaster Divinity College Style Guidelines for Essays and Theses" available at the College and course website.
- Gender Inclusive Language: McMaster Divinity College uses inclusive language for human beings in worship services, student written materials, and all of its publications. In reference to biblical texts, the integrity of the original expressions and the names of God should be respected. The NRSV and TNIV are examples of the use of inclusive language for human beings. It is expected that inclusive language will be used in chapel services and all MDC assignments.
- Citations: You must cite the source of your material very carefully using a consistent system, not only when quoting from a section, but also when drawing from it as resource. Quotations should be kept to a minimum as I favour integration of secondary literature (footnoted).
- Statement on Academic Honesty: Academic dishonesty is a serious offence that may take any number of forms, including plagiarism, the submission of work that is not one's own or for which previous credit has been obtained,^{} and/or unauthorized collaboration with other students. Academic dishonesty can result in severe consequences, e.g., failure of the assignment, failure of the course, a notation on one's academic transcript, and/or suspension or expulsion from the College. Students are responsible for understanding what constitutes academic dishonesty. If you are a Divinity College student please refer to the Divinity College Statement on Academic Honesty ~ www.madciv.ca/regs/honesty.php.

^{} this is a special issue for those pursuing second and third degrees in theology. It is understood that students will be building on earlier ideas and work, but it is expected that students will not hand in material that is merely "warmed over" previous work. If there reason for concern speak with me about this.

So I can properly evaluate your work and help you grow in your biblical and writing skills the following evaluation guide should be kept in mind as you write:

- Presentation: Is the spelling correct? Does the grammar/syntax reflect proper English? Is the paper laid out properly?
- Argumentation: Is there a good introduction and conclusion? Does the argument flow with ample support? Is the question answered
- Content: Are all the points considered? Is there proper documentation of sources used?
