Catalog Course Description

The life and writings of influential theologians from across the history of the Christian tradition, to examine how theology, ministry, and vocation develop in context.

Course Objectives

In this course you will receive support to build and refine part of the context for theological work in the Christian tradition. As you begin to pursue a Ph.D. in Christian Theology, it is useful to realize you are not the first one to pursue this vocation. We can learn much from the experience of our predecessors.

As an interdisciplinary course, we will primarily engage theology, history, and ministry, but biblical studies will play a role as they are prominent in the Christian tradition and probably of particular interest to some of the class participants.

Knowing

see how theologians have recognized their calling understand and evaluate what past theologians have contributed gain expertise in the life and thought of several theologians most important to your work

Being

able to discern challenges for the tradition motivated to take up one's part in the tradition

Doing

hone skills of careful analysis and reflection express analysis and insight clearly and persuasively in written and oral forms better integrate one's theology with Christian life, scholarship, and the practice of ministry

Evaluation

Ten percent for consistent and thoughtful participation in class.

Ten percent for your presentation(s) that will briefly respond to three orienting questions:

- 1) what key challenges did the church face during the life-time of the theologian you are investigating?
- 2) what did the theologian contribute to her or his day?
- 3) what does that theologian still have to offer?

Your presentation is to be emailed to all class participants by class time one week before it is to be discussed. Earlier mailing is welcome. Later mailing will lose points.

Ten percent for your assigned critique(s) of another participant's presentation on the three centered questions.

Ten percent for your work as a facilitator of an assigned class or classes.

Sixty percent for your term paper.

Academic Honesty

Academic dishonesty is a serious offence in the academic world that may take any number of forms, including plagiarism, the submission of work that is not one's own or for which previous credit has been obtained, and/or unauthorized collaboration with other students. Academic dishonesty can result in severe consequences, e.g., failure of the assignment, failure of the course, a notation on the transcript, and/or suspension or expulsion from the College.

Students are responsible to understand what constitutes academic dishonesty. Please refer to the Divinity College Statement on Academic Honesty at www.macdiv.ca/regs/honesty.php.

Gender Inclusive Language

McMaster Divinity College uses inclusive language for human beings in worship services, student written materials, and all its publications. In reference to biblical texts, the integrity of the original expressions and the names of God should be respected. The NRSV and TNIV are examples of the use of inclusive language for human beings. It is expected that inclusive language will be used in chapel services and all MDC assignments.

Required Textbook

Most course reading will be assigned at the first day of class in response to student selection of theologians. To help set initial context, we will read the following textbook for the second class meeting.

Richard Foster, Streams of Living Water, San Francisco: HarperOne, 2007.

All required textbooks for the Divinity College are available from the College's book service-READ On Bookstore, Room 218, McMaster Divinity College. Texts may be purchased on the first day of class. For advance purchase, you may contact READ On Bookstores, 304 The East Mall, Suite 100, Etobicoke, ON M9C 5K1: phone 416-620-2934; fax 416-622-2308; email books@readon.ca.

Class Schedule

All class members read before class the paper to be presented and would benefit from reading further in the bibliography. Class members assigned to present, critique, and facilitate will have particular responsibility to be thoughtfully well read in the life and writings of the theologian being discussed. As a scholar each student will want to be building a personal library of works for reference. The bibliography below has primarily been selected from Mills and has the applicable call numbers. If you are using Mills as your main source be careful to coordinate with other class members who may be looking for some of the same books.

At the first class meeting we will take turns signing up for particular theologians and tasks. The size of the class will dictate if each participant has the opportunity to hold each role once or twice.

January 7

Welcome, introduction, and assignment of responsibilities for each session.

January 14

Discussion of Foster's book, Streams of Living Water. Please study the complete text before class. If you would benefit from a refresher on church history, read Appendix 1 for a quick overview.
